Central Kentucky farmers complain of want The new Masonic Temple in Paducah was ledicated with imposing ceremonies on Fri-lay evening last.

Still all of our exchanges unite in denunci-tion of recent Kuklux outrages, and call upon the Governor and Legislature to take stringent measures to punish the perpetrators and to prevent the recurrence of such crimes. There is a chance that Faducah may be fur-lished with a sensation in the shape of a duel i men are fools enough to resort to the code of honor, so-called, to settle their little di-recruces, it is better that they should take he field; and it wouldn't be a bad idea for cach to tepper the other until sheir 'honor'' s cooled with a little wholesome blood.

Well, that's better. Your first ides was to fix up a scheme by which Kentucky was intended practically to furnish all the money, while Cincinnati was to supply the trustees. Now, in order to settle the matter, suppose we each resolve to furnish an equal proportion of both, "'alf-an'-'alf."

A Frankfort correspondent of one of the Cincinnati papers says that the Editor of the COURER-JOURNAL narrowly escaped hanging during the war at the hands of General BRAXTON BRAGG. How near the anging may have been we are not quite able to say. Our memory is that the range was rather long. But if there was any danger at all it was incurred for making a Ken-ucky fight in a Kentucky interest and for the benefit of Kentucky Confederate officers and soldiers. For full particulars we refer the correspondent in question to the very distinguished attorney of the Fergus on bill, who is now in Frankfort.

Law and Order in Kentucky. Most i not all of the disorders in Ken-tur', y may be ascribed to the absence of lear on the part of offenders that they will be punished. There is an impression in the mind of ignorant people that because negroes are excluded from our State couris they are not able to testify at all. The dea that there is a Federal court provided for them is not generally appreciated. Consequently this supposed disability stimusequently this supposed disability stimu-lates acts of violence, and these have un-doubtedly been encouraged by the stub-born and in many instances the heated opposition which has met every proposition to modify our rules of evidence so as to cover the necessities of the existing order of things.

The worst enemy of the Democratic this. It now involves a simple act of justice to the whites. When the measure was first brought forward the negroes were not invested with the ballot nor protected by Federal guarantees. They were wholly dependent on State legislation. It is humiliating to think that protection was refused them when the question lay with us, and that the General Government came along and by violent and unconsti-tutional enactments lifted them almost above the reach of law. But such is the tact. Now the conditions that did exist are reversed. It is the white people that need protection against the Federal courts instead of the black people who need protection against the State courts. The negro is a voter and a witness and has an election law and a legal tribunal especially provided for him. He is no longer a mendicant for justice or humanity. He can have a white man jerked up in one end of Kentucky and dragged to the other end on a five dollar writ, which will amount to five huned dollars before it is done with. He is already having State judges and magistraics indicted because they obey their oath and refuse negro testimony under the Kentucky law. The proposal to harmonize this Kentucky law with the present ituation of affairs is therefore a proposal to reduce negroes to the level of other people and to extend relief to the whites.

The outrages which have occurred have been perpetrated by ignorant and lawless men who do not comprehend the situation. They have been taught to believe, or have taught themselves to believe, that it is safe to prey upon negroes because the negroes are excluded from the courts of the State. But the ruffian who kills a black man today is likely to kill a white man to-morrow, and, whether he does or not, murder is murder, no matter who happens to be

The Democratic party is responsible for law and order, for the peace and quiet, of Kentucky, and we cannot afford to carry so much as the appearance of complicity with the villamy which has disgraced the very neighborhood of the State capital. We have been in the habit of complaining when the body died the soul wetter.

A Texas mail contractor having been noticed by the Postoffice Department that one Gage, a mail carrier in his employ, had been complained of by the clitzens, repied in a letter of peculiar orthography, in which he stated that he had no loformation whether the complaints were against the manners or the looks of the carrier, but feared that if it were the man's looks that were objected to, he would have 'to gow by the bord.' A photograph of the unlucky carrier, which the contractor inclosed, fully sustained this view of the case.

Some time since for the contractor in the habit of of mplaining of ar have escaped its most odious forms. But unless we set our house in order we shall have no right to complain, and will not be able to avert it. We say that local self-government is the best government in the world, because it is adapted to take care of minute local interests. But if it does not do this, if, on the contrary, it allows ruffianism to go unpunished as here. this, it, on the contrary, it allows rufflan-ism to go unpunished right under its eyes, it brings reproach upon itself and refutes the argument set up in its behalf.

All our arguments in tayor of negro tes-timony have been arguments made in the interest of State supremacy over Federal jurisdiction. They have all been made in the interest of the Democratic party: In-telligent men have seen this long ago, and the effort to drive us out of the Democratic party because we have refused to stultify our allegiance to it has ceased to affront the good sense of good men. But still the practical realization of a measure that is tell to be both essential and inevitable is still held back, and the Legislature has no one statesman brave enough to step for-ward and take the bull by the horns. Even sition of advantage, will go out of office without so much as urging the matter upon the General Assembly, and the whole thing must lie over at the expense of all the people of the State, but chiefly at the expense of the Democratic party, until another Legislature assembles, and new men take the helm or the old leaders think they can change front with a little more

Meanwhile all this lawlessness, which is the fruit of misinstruction, is going on unchecked, and Kentucky and the party which is responsible for its well-being are suffering in repute. Is it fair to ask us, as a faithful Democratic journal, to be silent in the face of such a condition of things? Are we not doing the Democratic party

Together the hands of the Prussian government, a treatment which has always been distasteful and disagreeable to the German people, who look upon Naro-LEON as the originator of this terrible war, is beginning to create a good deal of indignation throughout Germany, and many are the comments made on it by the press of that country. Politically he seems to have stepped from the arena, and we hear as little from him as though he were in St. receives at the hands of the Prussian gov as little from him as though he were in St. Helena. But, if we are not mistaken, this would put Kentucky at a still greater disavantage. At a recent meeting of the Cincinnata Board of Trade a memorial to the Ohio Legislature was adopted. From the Ohio Legislature was adopted. Newstitustanding the restrictions that have always been imposed by the laws, the price or rotton would then be really a sovereign prince, although a prisoner. But as this manualities that have invited the investment of the regency did not survive the terrible disasregency did not survive the terrible disas- dsmn him at all. CITY ITEMS.

ter at Sedan, and was overthrown on the sixth of September, NAPOLEON III. is no longer a sovereign; for the Republic has taken the place of the Second Empire, and Louis Napolinon Bonaparte has resumed the condition of a private indi-vidual which he occupied before he was elected President of the French Republic after the downtall of Louis Philippe. As he and his friends assert that he is com-paratively poor, all this immense expense of his household, which is fully as lavish

s at the time of his glory, is borne by th Prussian Government.

But the Prussian Government, which is generally so economical, and almost stingy, must certainly have an important object in view when it so generously maintains the regal state of its prisoner. It is not the custom to treat even imprisoned monarchs of old established families in such a man-ner, and Prussia has been less in the habit ner, and rrussia has ocen less in the habit of doing so than other nations. During the Napoleome wars, when the King of Saxony was held prisoner by the Prussians, loud complaints were made as to the un-becoming shabitances of the place of one Sea Moss Farine from pure Irish moss, for blane mange, puddings, custards, creams, &c., &c. The cheapest, healthlest and most delicious food in the world. becoming shabbiness of his place of con-finement. And yet he was a monarch whose right to his throne was not questioned, whom his people had not deposed, and who, without question, was to resume his power at the end of the war. Only a few years ago, during the Prusso-Austrian indeed received with royal honors by the King of France, but we must not torget that James was the friend and ally of the French King, while Napoleon has at-tempted to sprend devastation in the country whose monarch treats him in so punificent a manner.

At the beginning of the war, the Prussian Government did its utmost to fasten the responsibility of the war upon Na. poleon. It employed its press to assaulthim in every possible manner. It was asserted that Naroleon had, without the least pretext, plunged both nations into a cruel and bloody war in order to secure the succession to the French throne to his son, and to ve-establish his waning preside many the French people. He was cruci and bloody war in order to secure the succession to the French throne to his son, and to we-establish his waning pres-tige among the French people. He was accused ot having tostered the hatred of the French people against the Germans, and in the war manifesto of King Wil-Alam, and in the opening speech of the LIAM, and in the opening speech of the King, in the North German Parliament, the French Emperor was designated as the originator and only cause of the war, which was said to be directed, not against the French people, but against their ruler.

But how has all this changed! The organs of Count BISMARCK attempt to exonerate . NAPOLEON III. form all blame. He was forced into the war by the nation, they say, and reluctantly complied. How does this sound when compared to their previous attacks? We see but one solution to the King WILLIAM, or rather his crafty adviser, still harbors the idea of replacing Napoleon on his throne, thus averting the danger of having a young and aspiring republic at their doors. They see that they can never force the men who stand at the head of the provisional govrnment of France to accept the terms which they offer. There is a twofold bstacle to any agreement between Germany and the Committee of Public Detense. In the first place the egotism of the French leaders prevents them from agreeing to a humiliting peace, which would, perhaps, save the country from further devastation, and is undoubtedly urgently desired by a ma-jority of the French people, but which would also put an end to their own power, and then the wounded pride which would induce the French in some of the larger ities to disown any treaty made by the lovernment at Bordeaux. For such reaons it would seem that BISMARCK conimplates the restoration of Napoleon stille only road to peace and tosters by every means the disposition of the other owers to recognize his prisoner still as he sovereign of France.

But how will he carry this pretty plan nto effect? The name of Napoleon III. has become inseparably linked with galling lisaster to France, and is rarely pro-ounced by a Frenchman without a curse. Their wounded self-love finds some conso-lation in ascribing the utter rout of their armies to him and his creatures alone. The French can overlook any amount of ices and depravities in their monarchs: hey can applaud men who ruin their ountry by extravagance and thirst for glory; but never have they forgiven such a want of success. His restoration will meet with butter opposition from the French people, and must be effected by Prussian bayonets under circumstances

Neither is it certain that the French soldiers held as prisoners in Germany support him, although it is claimed that they are in his tayor. A petition which is being signed by immense numbers is now circulating in their prisons. This is a protest against his restoration to power, which shows that a spirit animates the which shows that a spirit anim French prisoners of all classes that will make the Prussian plans with reference to the overthrow of the French republic very blood and treasure both to France and to Germany.

They say CHARLES SUMNER not ong ago said to John Covode: "There is no measure, nor standard of weights and measures, and no yard-stick capable of measuring the imbecility of President GRANT." This is very true, but we should think that the question might be solved with sufficient exactness for all practical purposes by some such process as that which the astronomers employ to determine the distance between the earth and the fixed stars.

It is said to be very difficult for a rich man to get to Heaven; but BEECHER, it would seem, either doesn't believe the story, or A New York paper says, "Certainly the Radical party finds much cause for dejection in the career of President Grant." And there is little doubt that by the time its next national convention meets it will have found quite as much cause for rejection. Some people blame Mrs. More-nouse, of Indianapolis, tor eloping with a shoemaker while her husband was in Missouri; but for our part we can't see how she could possibly have chosen a more proper time for the business.

The betrothal of the Prince Impe rial and the daughter of the Crown Prince of Prussia would eclipse the victory of Sedan. Indeed, it would be the most "brilliant engagement" of the war.

and upon the merest pretext, for the purpose of extortute black mail, and there are plenty of shyster lawyers who are always ready to aid the mercals. Sometimes timid respectable people are disposed to make a compromise rather than go to the expense and submit to the annexpance of a defense. Very often libel suits are instituted from mere mailee, and when there is no libel at all, because under the present law the prosecutor can punish the defendant by causing him heavy costs, even though the suit goes against himsgif in the end. The proprietors and editors of newspapers are more subject than any other people to unjust, costly and annoying suits of this character."

FOREIGN CAMP COSSIP.

IT cos's Toul $33,000 a mouth to support its German garrison. Concealed weapons among the population is a severely punished oftense. THE occupants of a German hospital in Brusce's were delightfully surprised by a Christmas tree. Besides other acceptable ar-ticles, each one received 20 frances in gold.

A GUARD was shot by some of the popula-tion at Metz. A flue of 50,000 femes was im-mediately levied, with the provision that five times the smeant would be required in atone-ment for like offenses in the future.

The post, occasioned by the army in France, has 250 to 260 establishments, and requires the services of 5,000 men. Sixty-five mullions of letters, 1,000,000 pac. Saxty-five modelons of letters, 1,000,000 pac. Saxty-five modelons in ca-h, &c., have been sent through it.

The 200th battalion of the Paris National Guard, on going to the front to duty, got on a spree. General Thomas substantially telegraphs to Trochu: "The command is druck, less do nothing with them. Sucha National Guard is worth nothing."

The latest means of intercourse with the Parsians is per bottle. A piece of bottled-up information was recently "taken out of the wet" in the river Marne, which flows into the Reine—it may not be unnecessary to state, since the appearance of Mark Twata's war man.

Arzeger complains that only English correspondents are treated with any consideration at Versalites. He refers to the London Times and the News for the fullest accounts from headquarters. There is much jealousy existing between the favored English correspondents and the German.

The outer pickets are distant 100 to 600 paces from the enemy, according to circumstances; nearer by night, and father apart by day. Constant communication is kept up between them. The most advanced pickets, who are at times compelled to remain prostrate and motionless upon the ground for hours before relief, naturally suffer much.

FRANKPORT, K.T., Jan. 16.
I rearcely know how to write, or even to commence, a letter from Frankfort 'to-day. The Legislature, it is true, has been in session all the morning, but the proceedings were neither of such a nature as to amuse or interest. If not absolutely "state, flat and unprefitable," they were at all events wholly unsuggestive of interesting items, even to the most wide-awake newspaper correspondent.

The bill proposing to increase the saiaries of the Circuit Judges of the Commonwealth and of the Louisville Chancery Court to something like an adequate compensation, is to be considered and seted upon on Tuesday, There can be no sort of doubt that the salaries of Appellate and Circuit Judges ought to be raised to a living rate. The well-being of society demands that the independence of the judiciary should be secured.

LEE COUNTY AND ITS COUNTY-BEAT.

At the hast seesloon of the General Assembly, a new county called Lee was organized, and there seems to be considerable trouble among its linhabitants in regard to the location of the county-seat. Three places—Proctor, Bestlyaville and Canasn—contend for the honor, and by the provisions of a bill which passed the House to-day, the people of the county are to decide between them by vote. Upon this bill no little discussion came off, and the flowers of rictoric were aired by gentlemen "from the land of mountain and flood" rather stunningly. Without knowing anything about the merits of the controversy, your correspondent has no heelstation in pronouncing for "the happy lend of Canasa."

NEW COUNTIES.

Bills for the creation of several new countries.

Bills for the creation of several new countries will come before the Levislature this session, and if passed the result would be, I believe, in every instance an addition to the pauper counties of the Commonwealth. There has been quite enough of this sort of thing, and I upst no *new-country bills will be favorably entertained.

and I then no *new-county bills will be favorable controlled.

It is understood that a bill will shortly be introduced providing for the sale of the State stock in turppike roads. Mr. Hindman, of Adair, to-day offered a resolution inquiring of the Anditor the amonat of stock owned by the State in turppike and the introduced for the present to withdraw it.

THE SHOOTING LAST SATURDAY.

The negro, Trumbo, shot by Horace Bradley, just beyond the fannel Saturday afternoon, is still alive, and it is now thought may recover. Bradley has been arrested, and is in the Frankfort sail. The case, I take it for granted, will be transferred to the Federal Court, as our State laws preclude the introduction of negro testimony.
